Writers Corps
Live your story. Write your story. Share your story.

Writing Workshop for Military Service Members, Spouses, and Family

Monday, September 25 | 5:00 P.M.
Peck Hall | Room 304B
Questions? Contact Matthew Brown at matthew.brown@mtsu.edu or Patrick Richey at patrick.richey@mtsu.edu

Meeting of Writers Corps: A group of military service members writing their stories, sharing their stories and helping each other tell them better.

You have served or are currently serving the people of your country, now it’s time to let them know what that really means. Welcome to Writers Corps, an organization made up of service members and family with stories to tell who want to help each other tell them better. Work with your peers to write about your experiences and workshop your writing to make its real message come through. You know what you’ve been through, here’s your chance to learn how to put it into words like never before.