

FLUID OUNCES

Fluid Ounces, a contemporary alternative rock band in Murfreesboro, Tennessee, consists of Seth Timbs, lead vocals, piano, guitar, composer and arranger; Ben Morton, electric 6-string bass; Brian Rogers, rhythm guitar; and Sam Baker, drums.

The band was formed late in 1994. They play in various clubs and venues in Murfreesboro and Nashville, and have participated in the "NEA Extravaganza" and "Dancing in the Streets" festivals in Nashville. They are sponsored by Spongebath Records, Murfreesboro, which records other bands, such as "Self" and "The Features" as well. They perform an expanding body of original tunes with influences ranging from the Beatles to Thelonius Monk.

Sam Baker, part-time student worker and employee in the Center for Popular Music, has been with the band since its inception. He has been working in CPM with Bruce Nemerov as assistant in maintaining the record collections of the Center.
